Pictures Their Sympathy as Bringing In New Era

Gets Tremendous Overtures at Three Chicago Meetings

[From a Staff Correspondent of The Tribune.]

Chicago, Oct. 19.—President Wilson made his first definite bid for the 3,000,000 women voters of the West, and the 250,000 of Illinois in particular, in his five hours' visit here to-day. Although the main address of the three he delivered was before an audience of newly made citizens at the stock yards to-night, it was the pulse of the feminine electorate that the political physicians in charge of the Democratic headquarters here watched most eagerly.

If there is anything in crowds that defy all police arrangements, any thing in cheers that roll wave on wave unceasingly, President Wilson's reception here to-day equalled anything Chicago ever accorded any candidate for his high office. From the time the Presidential party arrived, at 12:50, the streets through which the President passed were one seething mob of cheering people.

Speaks of Women's Part

Tremendous applause greeted the President as he entered the Auditorium Theatre. When Mrs. Ella Flagg Young introduced him there was another outburst, prolonged for nearly five minutes. And when the President himself addressed the audience as fellow citizens' cheering started again.

But though the President was expected to speak on "peace" and the meeting had been arranged as a great demonstration to show that the women of the West would not tolerate any course that might lead to the embroilment of the nation, Mr. Wilson merely skirted the subject. He chose instead to speak of the part women were to play in the economic readjustment he declared was coming. Their contribution to political life, he asserted, was to be "sympathy" in tempering the spirit of conquest and struggle with which man had always approached the nation's problems.

The President also made a plea for new concepts of law governing the relationship of employers and their men, and he again extolled the eight-hour law. The time had come, he declared, when justice no longer could be cold, but must have also warmth and sympathy.

Sees Change in World Law

"Unless I am very much mistaken," he added, "there is also coming a time when this same quality of sympathy and mercy will come into the hitherto cold and untouched field of international law, when nations shall agree that the rights of humanity are greater than the rights of sovereignty."

"I am ambitious that America should now show the way in this great enterprise. I take leave to say that some of the difficulties of our foreign relationships in the last two years have been due to the fact that it was not comprehensible to some foreign statesmen that the United States really was disinterested. They have never heard of such a thing, and in proportion as the United States demonstrates to the world that its influence in the family of nations is disinterested, it will have the power which does not come from arms, but comes from the great, invisible powers that well up in the human heart."

"When the nations of the world come to love America they will obey and follow America. Slowly we are setting the stage, slowly we are releasing the forces; slowly we are drawing together, and then in some happy day America will see clearly, as she saw at first that vision of justice and freedom and righteousness which gave her birth and distinction at the beginning."

Mrs. Young Points to Peace

At the meeting of women the President was introduced by Mrs. Young, who pointed out that he had kept the United States "honorable at peace." Miss Jane Addams, who recently came out for him, occupied a seat in a box. The hall, with a capacity of 4,200, was filled, and many women stood.

The President defined his message to the women as follows:

"Society is now organizing its whole power that it may understand itself, that it may have a new organization and instrument of civilization, and I am ambitious that America should show the way in this great enterprise."

Humanitarianism Growing

"I am happy to say that I am not singular and isolated in this," he said, in prophesying a new era, "because all over the United States men have begun to have that sort of enlightened humanitarianism which ought to have

OHIO NOW SAFE, HERRICK INSISTS

Danger Has Vanished Since Hard Campaign Started

Myron T. Herrick, ex-Ambassador to France and Republican candidate for United States Senator in Ohio, who was in the city for a few hours yesterday, declared that while there were some "bad spots" in the Buckeye State the general situation was all right for Hughes. He said the labor vote was large and intelligent, and that, while some of it might be deceived temporarily by the eight-hour law, it would not change the vote materially.

"Why do reports of bad Republican conditions come from Ohio?" Mr. Herrick was asked.

"Probably because the Democratic campaign managers are centering their activities upon Ohio and endeavoring to stampede the independent voters," was the reply.

"Where are the so-called bad spots?"

"In the centers where there is an abnormal production of war supplies and where normal labor conditions are temporarily out of plumb."

"Why are not similar reports of bad conditions coming from Indiana?"

"In Indiana there has been active and intensified campaign work for a considerable period. Ohio has never gone Democratic in a Presidential year. Ohio was believed to be in no danger until the hard work of a week or ten days ago started."

Mr. Herrick was asked if he thought the state ticket would run ahead of Hughes. He did not care to answer.

"Ohio has her own view on public questions," Mr. Herrick said. "She often begins wrong and invariably ends right. She originated the 'rag baby'—the greenback craze—but finally repudiated it. She was wedded to free silver and Bryan in 1896, in August, but repudiated both in November."

"Ohio has a very large and intelligent labor population. That class of voters has been anything new, especially affecting them, with great liveliness and intensity. The lively interest those voters in Ohio have shown in the Wilson-Adams law is being mistaken for endorsement of it. Their interest has been proclaimed just as loudly before as evidence of conversion to other Democratic fallacies. In every case they have voted against them in November. They are going to do that this year."

The ex-Ambassador has been preaching to the working people of Ohio that the European war represented a 100 per cent tariff, and when it was over it would drop back to the Underwood low tariff and the industries in the state would suffer accordingly. The laboring people were beginning to get the argument, he said.

Candidate's Wife Telegraphs Appreciation of "Splendid Work" of Members of Cross-Country Train Party—Others See Votes Gained by Tour

Across the country from Niles, Mich., to San Diego, Cal., a message flashed yesterday from the woman most interested in the election of Charles E. Hughes to the women who are doing most to get him elected. It was a message of thanks and appreciation from Mrs. Hughes, and told of her pleasure in the daily reports she had received of the progress of the Women's Hughes Campaign train, now rolling triumphantly through Southern California. The message read:

"Mr. Hughes and I have read them (the reports) with the deepest interest and satisfaction, and are most appreciative of the splendid work which is being done."

Miss Frances Kellor, chairman of the train committee, has been flooded with telegrams from local Republican leaders ever since the women campaigners left Montana.

Great Work in Spokane

Charles Hebbard, chairman of the Spokane County Republican Central Committee, telegraphed:

"The meeting held here last night was the best that we have had, or probably will have, during the campaign. At a meeting of the county speakers to-day noon, they all agreed that it was the best political meeting that they had ever heard. My only regret in the matter, so far as Spokane is concerned, is that we did not fully appreciate the value of this party in advance, and that we did not fully utilize their time here."

"I think you will find this is the condition in each place they will visit, and I believe that something additional should be done to impress the value of this meeting upon the communities in advance of their coming."

The cheerful mood of the campaigners is reflected in a message received by Miss Mary Dreier, sister of Mrs. Raymond Robins, saying:

"Greatest demonstration in Portland. Marching Republican Club out, as well as hundreds of men and women. Our speakers held street meeting of 5,000 for several hours. Continuously heckled by good natured crowd. Mass meetings in Montana, Oregon and Washington attended equally by men and women. We are told repeatedly by Republican committeemen that we are turning votes and are the most important factor

WOMEN TESTING RIGHT TO VOTE ALL OVER U. S.

Ballot in One State Covers All They Contend

Boston, Oct. 19.—A new expedient to extend suffrage for women is being tested in this state. Women who have voted in states which have extended the suffrage to them, such as California, Colorado and Oregon, have made formal demands in various cities of Massachusetts where they are now residents that they be registered as legal voters. The claim is advanced that, having qualified as a legal voter in one state, a woman who moves to another state has the right to vote in her new residence.

In support of this claim, which is to be pressed in the courts by the International Woman's Suffrage Association, that organization points to the following sections of the Federal Constitution:

"Full faith and credit shall be given in each state to the public acts, records and judicial proceedings of every other state" (Article 4, section 1) and "the citizens of each state shall be entitled to all the privileges and immunities of citizens in the several states" (Article 4, section 2).

POLICE VAINLY HUNT BIRTH CONTROL CLINIC

And Mrs. Sanger Does Brisk Business in Brownsville

While the police combed the neighborhood in vain in search of the place, a secret birth control clinic opened yesterday by Mrs. Margaret Sanger in the Brownsville section of Brooklyn did a brisk business. Scores of women, mostly from the Polish and Italian districts of the vicinity, who had been informed of the secret address, flocked to the place, registered, paid their 30-cent fees and received verbal information.

Mrs. Sanger said she knew it would only be a question of time when the police would discover the location of the clinic and close it up, perhaps arresting all connected with it, but she said she wanted to get in as much good work as she could before this came about. Miss Ethel Byrne, a trained nurse, was in charge.

A dinner will be given in the Brevoort Hotel on Sunday, October 29, in honor of Jessie Ashley and Ida Raub, who are under arrest for disseminating information regarding birth control at a meeting in Union Square. Miss Ashley's trial will open on October 30 and Mrs. Raub's some time in November.

Mrs. Amos Pinchot is chairman of the dinner committee, and others who will attend are Mrs. Frank Cothran, Mrs. Mary Ware Dennett, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Poole, Dr. Ira S. Wile, Mrs. Elsie Clews Parsons, Mrs. Miriam Batte Price, Dr. A. J. Goldwater, Mrs. Rose Pastor Stokes and Mrs. Frederick C. Howe.

Monroe Clothes

Suits Overcoats 15 Evening Clothes

Style—Satisfaction—Service and Saving are foursquare with Monroe Clothes at $15

After buying two suits at our Nassau St. shop Wednesday, a gentleman said to the salesman: "You folks don't realize what a boon Monroe Clothes at $15 are to men like me. Heretofore I used to pay $25 or $30 for a suit—and I just had to wear that one suit day in and day out because I couldn't afford two suits a season. Now for the same $30 I get two suits that I know serve the same purpose because I bought Monroe Clothes last season. I enjoy the pleasure of having a change of clothes, and I'm always stylishly dressed."

And that sums up the whole story of Monroe Clothes—they enable men to dress better for less—a result made possible because we are makers and sell direct to you in our lower rent upstairs shops.

Come up and see Monroe Suits and Overcoats for Fall. See for yourself how much real value your $15 gets here when invested in Monroe Clothes, and we know you will join the thousands of men who now effect a substantial saving every time they buy Monroe Clothes at $15.

A Campaign for Home Preparedness

PREPAREDNESS in the home means much more than having the pantry stocked.

It means knowing that the hams and bacon and other meat food products you buy are not only of the best quality, but that they have been handled, prepared and packed with the respect due eatables.

And one way you can be sure of this is to specify Wilson's Majestic brand of hams, bacon, lard and other food products.

Wilson's Majestic Hams and Bacon are particularly selected. Our requirements are so exact that only about four hams out of ten are selected for our Majestic label. Majestic Bacon is really the heart of the bacon—the choicest section of the finest sides.

Our special curing and smoking give them the tempting aroma and the delicious old-time flavor which satisfy you that "Wilson's" is the "pure food name."

All Wilson & Co. food products are prepared under U. S. Government supervision.

Look for Wilson's Majestic label on the hams, bacon, lard and other meat food products you buy for your family.
